THE NEVADA EXHIBIT.

The San Francisco Chronicle has the following from its Chicago correspondent regarding Nevada:

Nevada is fortunate regarding the locality of its exhibit in the agricultural building, having, through the courtesy of Idaho obtained a space in section C, on the main floor, near the center stairway leading to the gallery. Men are engaged in erecting a suitable booth 26x24 feet, and when this is arranged it will show that people who believe that Nevada raises nothing but sagebrush how mistaken they are. Eight large velvet frames, 50x60 inches covered with the choicest varieties of cereals and surrounded with a deep silver molding, call for special attention, together with 60 varieties of grain neatly arranged in red-wood boxes with glass covers, being the work of Professor McDowell of the United States experimental station at Reno. Grain, corn, alfalfa, timothy, are shown in sheaves, with a bale of each. Potatoes, corn, fruits, vegetables, almonds, peanuts, honey and cheese, will also be in the exhibit. No arrangements were made for a display in the horticultural or dairy buildings, so the latter products will be exhibited in the agricultural booth. Many States have made similar arrangements.

This exhibit should prove of the greatest benefit to the State. Probably many years will elapse before another opportunity will be found to show to the world what can be done in a State where thousands of acres are lying idle, only awaiting the hand of the settler to make them a veritable paradise. Maps and pamphlets will be displayed, with the reports of the State officials and agricultural stations and societies, together with many letters from old settlers to show what has been done and also what can be accomplished.

The mining interests, as far as silver is concerned, being in a dormant condition, it becomes necessary for the people to bestir themselves. It is a pity the prime beef of Nevada can not be exhibited in the livestock department, as it is known to every State in the Union. Nevada's ranges are so adapted to the raising of livestock that many would take advantage of going into the business if properly advertised. The butter industry of the State is becoming well known in Illinois and further East, and the product has been openly declared to be gilt edge, bringing 30 cents a pound at Elgin, Ill., in carload lots.

Surveys have been made whereby immense quantities of water in the rivers and mountain streams can be stored and utilized during the dry season.

Nevada has sent the first fresh figs of the season to the Fair. They are on exhibition in the Horticultural Building, and although D. Bonelli of Borville, who sent them, claims that they are three weeks late, people will not believe they matured in open air. In the Ethnological Department, Nevada's prehistoric footprints from the State Prison quarry at Carson are to be found. At first a meager space was allotted for placing the prints and relics on shelves, but such interest was manifested in them that the Commissioners resolved to reproduce a section of the quarry at Carson by occupying a space of 40x20 feet, placing the prints by means of plaster casts in a preparation representing the character and formation of the floor of the quarry. The originals will be utilized for this purpose. The tunnels and walls will be represented by large bromides shown to an exact scale by maps taken from the descriptions given by Professors Harkness, Le Count and Gibbs.

The Commissioners are greatly handicapped in their work owing to the smallness of the appropriation. It is a pity that it was not large to make a display equal to any of the Coast States. The only remedy will be through the generosity of those who owe what they have to the "Battle-born State."

Now that it has been decided that the World's Fair will be opened Sundays, the Methodists will cover their exhibits on that day.
